This Owl Is Adjustable

Seen At London Zoo and Reported As Great Party

An "adjustable" owl is on view at the Zoo, London, England. It is known as a Porcupine Owl Owl, and though insignificant in size, being normally less than six inches high, it is regarded as a great rarity. The color and markings of its plumage are like those of a true owl. When at rest the owl elongates its body and sits motionless in such a position that it resembles the stump of a branch. But a remarkable change comes over it when it is disturbed. It shows out the wings, which vibrate in a way like a true bat, and it is in this shape and quite unlike its elongated self.

A Remarkable Record

Seven Hundred London Firms in Business For Century Or More

It will be a surprise to Londoners to learn that their great city boasts no fewer than seven hundred firms that have been in business for one hundred years or more. When we consider how easily business change hands, how they fall into decay through a change of fashion or the coming of a new invention, it is a piece of good luck that the younger generation find even the use of such firms and products rare. It is a remarkable and praiseworthy record of industrial enterprise.

Holds High Opinion Of Agricultural Possibilities Of Peace River District

OTTAWA, Ont., The fertile lands of the Peace River district were painted in glowing colors by Major E. J. Ashton, commissaire of the Soldier Settlement Board, speaking before a local service club. The 500 soldier settlers in that district since 1920 have been more punctual and sure of repaying their indebtedness to the board than any in Canada. The com-

On the 40 million acres in the belt, more than 50 per cent. is good agricultural land of proven fertility. Major Ashton, himself, had grown wheat and corn on the lands in the area. Even in 1929, the district marketed 7,000,000 bushels of wheat. The climate is such that Marquis and Redward wheats will ripen at least five days earlier than in other parts of the west, due to the brilliant sunshine.

Major Ashton believed that the advent of the railroad would aid the district.

Must Import Wheat

Portugal Is Now Facing With Serious Shortage

Lisbon, Portugal.—Because of shortage of wheat, the National Association of Millers have suspended work. No fear of a bread famine was felt, however, since army stocks are sufficient to keep up the daily supply without resort being made to a ration system until the government is able to modify the law concerning the import of foreign wheat.

The public has been advised to waste bread and the Minister of Agriculture has ordered all merchants to declare their stocks so the government may be able to fix the quantity to be imported at the legal quota.

Alarming reports have reached Lisbon from certain parts of the interior where there is a serious

They thus deprive the farmer his legitimate profit, says Mr.

Milling Qualities Excellent

Millers in Britain Are Enthusiastic
Over Garnet Wheat

OTTAWA, Ont.—Considerable enthusiasm was expressed among millers in Great Britain and on the Continent who investigated Corn wheat as to its milling qualities. Report by L. H. Newman, Dominion miller, at London, England, after investigations of locally grown wheat of this blend of wheat for export has been made public. For wheat at that time was not available as a separate variety, instead mixed with Manitobas. These showed the millers an opportunity to increase the variety of their product and they could turn it to the best advantage.

The Federal Department of Agriculture decided to submit Canadian wheat to the millers of Great Britain, and in different European countries. A year ago 6,700 bushels were shipped overseas to men experienced in milling, to test their suitability. These men were asked a series of questions, and Newman's report includes the replies they made.

France Delays Naval Program

Will Oppose the Way For Naval Negotiations With Italy

Paris, France.—Foreign minister Georges Bidault today announced opposition of France's shipbuilding program to the proposed Canadian program for naval negotiations with Italy. He told the Foreign Relations Committee of the Chamber of Deputies at the same time, that "nothing was to be expected from the negotiations."

M. Bidault assured the committee that he was anxious for peace concerning the relations between France and Italy.

Disclosing that no more ships would be built on the stocks in the country, he said that the program for next December, Minister Bidault said, was to be cancelled. He was informed of that fact officially.

Washington.—The Canadian border patrol was erected by Representatives of the Chicago, Republican, Michigan and Ohio Congresses to curb liquor traffic across the United States.

Emphasizing that the Canadian Government is "absolutely not engaged" in the liquor traffic, the Canadian representative pointed out that it was not necessary for the "dangerous" liquor traffic to be stopped by Canada in operating its boats without running lights. He recently pointed out that the Canadian Government was the practice of the United States.

While lauding the Canadian border patrol for its "humanity, courtesy and efficiency," the Canadian representative quoted F. W. Cannon, Canadian Minister of Marine, as describing the United States border patrol as "about 90 per cent efficient."

In conclusion, the foreign minister asserted that while Italy had best equipment for statehoodism possessed by any public man in the Dominion. He knows his business, is a master of statistics, and is adept in political strategy. He is also accused of Americanism but that is just as much twaddle. What man would sacrifice the light of position in Canadian public life to become a comparative novice in the United States?

R. B. Bennett has not devoted so many years of his life to statecraft as has Mr. King. He made his fortune first, and gave himself to public service afterwards, while Mr. King has practically devoted his whole life to public service. This is a confession of Mr. Bennett. He has enabled him to bring men and materials to public service that Mr. King could not possibly muster for his end of the same path. He is a shrewd lawyer of the corporation type, a man who has been successful in many law suits, and who has not left unmentioned the talents for political administration. He has much of the revivalist in him, in that he is enthusiastic in speech and can be carried away by the pressure of high moral appeal, this being no mean advantage to him in the legislature.

Both are bachelors—none the wiser!—both presentable men, both sincere Canadians, both impartial in attitude, both ambitious for power and office. Neither of them would sell their country. King would probably be guided more by the head and Bennett more by the heart. They differ not so much in politics as in the manner of carrying them. Then they are, you have a say, you take your choice.
